

Week Zero Camp

A "week zero" module is an orientation or welcome module, where students can find course information and begin to introduce themselves to each other and the instructor before the start of the semester. These "week zero" materials and activities can help students to better understand the goals and structure of the course, and allow the instructor to begin the first day of classes with a focus on course content.

Come build a "week zero" module with us this January! Camp consists of short presentations and plenty of hands-on work with individualized support from educational technologists and faculty facilitators. We will meet on Zoom.

During this 3-day camp, you will...

- build an entire "week zero" module for a future course in Blackboard
- use different tech tools and Blackboard features to create ice-breaking activities, record a welcome video, and design course orientation guides
- develop communication plans and curate edTech resources for students
- exchange ideas with faculty from different disciplines

Dates/Times

Mon., Jan. 9, 2023 10am-12pm (required), 2-4pm (optional)

Tues., Jan. 10, 2023 10am-12pm (required), 2-4pm (optional)

Wed., Jan. 11, 2023 10am-12pm (optional), 2-4pm (required)

Space is limited...

Week Zero Camp is open to part-time and full-time faculty, with half of the seats reserved for each. To ensure individualized support, space is limited. Please register by 11:59pm on Monday, November 7, 2022. We will notify the selected participants by late November.

Register now!

bit.ly/CUNY-WeekZero

For questions or more information, email: acert@hunter.cuny.edu

HUNTER
The City University of New York

ACERT

Center for ONLINE LEARNING

Week Zero Camp is offered by the Center for Online Learning and ACERT at Hunter College, with the support of the CUNY Innovative Teaching Academy.